WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

An upper trough will bring scattered showers and isolated thunderstorms to Trinity County through this evening. Otherwise dry weather will continue to prevail. Low clouds will continue to impact coastal areas.

Medford Weather:

A ridge will continue to build into the Eastern Pacific while a low pressure moves across eastern Washington into southern Idaho. The main effect on the forecast area will be more warming across inland zones. A few short wave disturbances will initiate more thunderstorms across our southern zones along the line from the southern part of the marble mountains east northeast into the medicine lake area of eastern Siskiyou County then across southern Modoc County. On Wednesday there is less instability over northern California counties with thunderstorm chance confined to the southern part of the marble mountains northeast into the medicine lake area. The ridge will move inland on Thursday making Thursday and Friday very warm days of the week. The rogue valley could see high temperatures around 90 degrees on both Thursday and Friday. Temperatures will be warm through the weekend but should start to decrease early next week.

Reno Weather:

A low pressure trough will keep enough instability around for mainly isolated thunderstorms through Wednesday with decreasing coverage Thursday. Warmer and drier conditions will develop by this weekend as high pressure builds over California and Nevada.

San Francisco Weather:

Cooler than normal conditions will continue through Wednesday along with widespread clouds. Warmer conditions are expected during the second half of the week, especially for inland areas. However, coastal areas will see only limited warming as an onshore flow remains in place.

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Gradually warmer temperatures this week with mainly afternoon and evening mountain showers and thunderstorms through mid-week. Strengthening high pressure brings warmer weather with high temps peaking at 5 to 10 degrees above normal Thursday and Friday.

Hanford Weather:

A warming trend will occur over central California through the end of the week, with temperatures becoming above normal. Otherwise, the region will remain dry, except over the southern Sierra Nevada where afternoon showers and thunderstorms will be possible through Thursday.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles Weather:

Onshore flow will bring night through morning low clouds and fog to the coast and into some valleys through the week, but areas farther inland will have fair skies. The temperatures will be near normal into midweek, then will warm to above normal through the weekend with fair skies at the beaches in the afternoons.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

High pressure will bring an inland warming trend through Saturday with a gradually shallower marine layer. Areas of night and morning coastal low clouds and fog will not extend as far into the valleys by late in the week. After Saturday, minor day to day differences are expected into early next week.

Southeast California Weather:

Dry weather along with a warming trend is forecast for the remainder of this week and weekend. A dry weather system will bring a period of cloudiness on Wednesday, but thereafter skies will remain clear to mostly clear through the weekend. Afternoon temperatures for the lower deserts by Friday through Sunday will generally top out between 100 and 105 degrees.
